

Fancy free

No time is more romantic than springtime, and no one knows this better than newlywed actress Ever Carradine. Married to singer/songwriter Coby Brown since October 2005, Carradine is currently spending her first spring as a married woman. “I love being married!” she exclaims. “My wedding was so beautiful — just perfect. We got married on the beach in New England in the fall.... Sometimes my husband and I will look at each other and just say, ‘We had the best wedding!’”

A lover of the outdoors, Carradine was thrilled to shoot a spring fashion story in the garden setting at Chaz Dean Studio in Hollywood. “The day we did this was like the perfect California day — crisp and cool, and the light was great,” she remembers. “There is nothing worse than showing up for a shoot on a beautiful day only to be stuck in a studio.”

And unlike her Commander in Chief character, press secretary Kelly Ludlow, wearing beautiful dresses is nothing unusual for this Hollywood pedigree. “I love getting dressed up for a cocktail party,” she says. “I would say that I am a little addicted to buying cocktail dresses.” But Carradine admits she does like to mix things up a bit with her own personal style. “I like mixing up designers — wearing things that you might not traditionally wear together. I also love things that have a bit of a sense of humor.”

PHOTOGRAPHY BY Mike Rosenthal STORY BY Sabrina Roberts

